The Steamer John Gilbert Damaged.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

CAIRO, Ill., September 10.—The steamer
John Gilbert struck a hidden obstruction at Thempson's that broke her hull up so that she will have to go on the ways at Paducah for repairs. The break is in the bottom forward, but the crew were able to prevent water fram coming in to any great extent, and although she has flour in her hold, no freight is reported damaged. She is at East Cairco and will require six hours to put off what freight she has for that piace. She entered a protest here and will try to push on to Paducah. Several boats have struck the same obstruction, but this is the first damaged.

y Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. HELENA, Ark., September 10.—The noon train on the Mobile & Northwestern Road was day afternoon. It was running at its full rate day afternoon. It was running at its full rate of speed, and, in coming around a curve, ran into a cow that was crossing the track, and the engine and two coaches were thrown over into a ditch. Fortunately the few passengers aboard escaped without any injury more serious than a good shake-up and the accident occasioned no greater damage than a few hours delay. The coaches and engines were gotten on the track in time for the train to go out in the afternoon.

The note was taken to Mrs. Drake. She had given up her husband for dead long before. The last time she had heard from him he had left a company with which he was playing as one of the members had died of small-pox and he had gone to work on a farm. She said that she intended to hunt him up and claim part of his fortune, as she was almost destitute. The publication of the facts at the time called public attention to Mrs. Drake and some old-time friends interested themselves in her.

Drake, or Dalincourt, was then playing in Arkansas. Later the company, which is doing small towns, came into Missouri. Drake was interviewed on the route and denied that he was the Samuel N. Drake who deserted his wife in St. Louis. Members of the company who knew of this episode in his career did not support him in this denial though it was evident that he had not come into a fortune. Nothing has been heard of his company since until this latest incident of the first and second-class rates.

The English Government does not favor restriction and its agents are now and have been active in their efforts to make the American Congress appear ridiculous in the eyes of China and so hamper and embarrass the admission of American enterprises and capital into the Emparor's dominons. It surprises me that his subterfuge has not been me that his subterfuge has not been discovered before. The British will leave nothing undone to retain their own supremacy. They are extremely jealous of any effort to trespass upon their own supremacy. They are extremely jealous of any effort to trespass upon their own supremacy. They are extremely jealous of railroad on the coast, under the control of England, there are no railroads. The Chinese Government wants railroads. It favors the American system in preference to the English system. It knows that we can build better roads and build them faster than England. It is significant, therefore, that American capital will find profitable investment in China. American manufacturers will build the rolling stock and lay the road-bed; American mines will supply the raw material; American workingmen will do the work. Is the subject not an important one? Should vast interests as these possibilities promise be jeopardized by a want of diplomacy on our part, by a fallure to see that the English Government is in favor of restriction of emigration, because such restriction does not injure it in the least. The investment of American capital in China cannot be a venture. It must bring a certain and a large return. The Chinese Government is fully in the control of the

by the Police. George W. Stafford is the name given by a tective Archambault on a charge of defrauding dressmakers about the city. He represented that he was connected with the ing dressmakers about the city. He represented that he was connected with the International Pattern Co. of No. 218 Grand street, New York City, and his scheme was to vasit dressmakers and offer to selt them the exclusive agency in this city for the concern and also give them 1,000 patterns and a large show-case for $15. The show-case itself, which he promised to give was worth double that amount, but in the written contracts which he gave them, it was stipulated that the show-case would arrive inside of twenty days. This gave him plenty of time to work a town. He went to one lady yesterday and made her the offer, but she did not have the cash, so told him to call again. Then he acreed to advance her the money and call for his pay to-day. When he came to-day he showed her a receipt for $15 shipped by the American Express Co. to New York. The lady became suspicions and consulted the police. Archambault arrested Stafford, who has been stopping at the Hotel Hunt. The envelope in which he claimed to have $15 was examined at the express office this morning and found to be empty. Stafford now claims he is the International Pattern Co. It has been learned that he obtained $7.00 from Mrs. Gazzola in the same manner, and his books show he has also been operating in Sedsila and Dallas. He has only been here since Wednesday. Stafford is about 35 years of age and a bionde.

A report was received from the Black Oak which gave great encouragement to the stock-holders. It will be remembered that over three months ago the vein in the upper level "spliced," and ever since that time the managers have been busily engaged in trying to recover it, without success. Last week it was determined to abandon the search in a forward direction, and push exploration work laterally. A crossocial was made westward, and after a dapth of 8 feet had been obtained the vein was struck, it having made what is technically called a jump. This vein is of the same quality of milling ore as that from which it separated, and has now been worked about a week without any indications of alteration in size or quality. Both shafts are being sunk as rapidity as possible, three eight-hour shifts being at work. The pumps are in place in the souls shaft. Two hundred shares of the stock sold at 284.

Weekly report of the Hope is as follows:

tribal capital, deeming it unsafe to remain there any longer. He made a speech to the assembled belligerents, informing them of the law governing their elections and telling them that Guy had been elected Governor by a fair majority of the legal votes. This so incensed the Indians of the Byrd following that they threatened to kill the Senator on the spot, and he had to leave the capital for his own safety. No Governor has been inaugurated, though last Monday was the day designated by law for that official ceremony. Large troops of armed Indians are still flooking to Tishomingo with a determination to inaugurate Byrd as Governor, notwithstanding Guy has been fairly elected. Hotel with closed doors shortly before moon. After a little discussion it was decided that it would be a wise step for the committee to hear from the candidates and representative politicians—from the candidates on any plan of campaign they might desire to recommend, and from the politicians as to the need of their respective localities. Mayor Francis, nominee for Governor; Senator Claycombe, mominee for Governor; Senator Claycombe, mominee for Lieutenant-Governor; Ed Noland, candidate for State Treasurer; J. M. Siebert, nominee for State Treasurer; J. M. Siebert, nominee for Railroad Commissioner went before the committee. They all reported that assurances had been received from various sections which gave them confidence in the election of the entire ticket by a big majority. The lowest figure named for the November majority was 40,000.

Among the office-holders and politicians and other candidates in attendance on the committee were the following: Judge Shep Barclay, nominee for Supreme Judge; Gec. H. Castleman and R. H. All the Western roads ran extra large trains and some ran specials. A special on the Wabash came through from Beloit, Kan., and the train left for Columbus on the Indianapolis & St. Louis. A Chicago & Alton special of eight cars arrived from Saims, Kan., and left in the afternoon. All the incoming Missouri Pacific trains were very late, none of them arriving until afternoon, when the Ohio & Mississippi, Vandalia and the Indianapolis & St. Louis all ran out extra trains. A large percentage of the excursionists were women and children, many of the veterans having their entire families with them. In the crowd were any number of children in arms. So great has been the rush of travel to Columbus that all roads running into the place have been compelled to borrow cars to carry on their business.

OFF FOR COLUMBUS.

Last night one of the largest excursion trains that ever left the city pulled out of the Union Depot for Columbus, O. The train consisted of seventeen passenger coaches, drawn by two locomotives, and was freighted with the comrades of Blair Post and their families. CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

letter of a man with a profound sense of tion, earnestly trying to render great and important services to his country, and seeking the popular indorsement of a re-election only by having the issues fairly presented and clearly understood by

After outlining the objects and aims of his Administration in various other directions he reiterates and urges very forcibly the views of his last annual message the subject of tariff reduction, showing up the evils of excessive taxation, the dangers of a great Treasury surplus and the injuries they inflict on the prosperity and the labor of the country. Now, as then, he takes the position that these evils can and should be avoided with great advantage to the productive industries of the country and without withdrawing from any of them the protection they need and are entitled to. He denies the free trade charge and treats it as a mere pretext for bstructing any and all reforms of the admitted inequalities and injurious features of the present tariff. On these points he is so clear and emphatic that even the disgruntled New York Sun claims that it is a protectionist letter. It is not a whit more so than what has been called his "free trade message." Both are protectionist documents in the true sense. They both plead for the protection of our industries from unneces sary and unjust taxation; protection from a Chinese wall policy that obstructs our export trade; protection from the robberpopular opinion when we assert that the like extortions of tariff-favored trusts and monopolies. Against all such combinations this letter is an explicit declaration of war. Instead of rushing to the defense of trusts, as Mr. BLAINE did in spite of his party's platform, Mr. CLEVE-LAND further illustrates his idea of protection for labor by favoring measures to protect our wage market from the competition of the hordes imported duty free by tariff-protected monopolies, not to strengthen our citizenship, but to cut

From the New York World.

In his speech at Fort Wayne last; Tuesday
Gen. Harrison repeated the familiar argument that lowering duties would reduce double Gen. Harrison's figures against England. The weavers in Utah receive $24 a week and in Illinois $9-a difference of 105 per cent. The wool sorters in Illinois received $13.50 and in Indiana (Gen. Harrison's own adjoining State) but $8-a difference of 68 per cent. The difference in sorters' wages in Connecticut and Rhods Island, adjoining and competing States, was $8 per cent-$11.40 in the former and $8.50 in the latter.

And yet the wool farmers and the woolen millis in all these States received the same protection by the tariff and were 'maintained in competition' in spite of these wide seem, this state of affairs has been detrimental to the Democrats rather than to the Republicans. Soores of Republicans voted with us, or stayed away from the polls, but so did hundreds of Democrats, because they knew that by so doing they would not imperil the success of their party. Another effect of the want of opposition was that when any man felt displeased with the nominations, he felt perfectly at liberty to express his dissatisfaction by staying at home on election day, knowing that thereby he could boast that he had done his best to rebuke the party leaders without in any way imperiling the election. Few appreciate how generally this method of displaying discontent has been resorted to, but the microscopic majority given the late Gov. Marmaduke proved the extent of the suppressed hyote.

Exaggerated reports are appearing in some of the newspapers in relation to the health of Mr. Joseph Pullizer of the New York World, now in Europe. As is well known, Mr. Pulitaer has been traveling in Europe for nearly four months in the company of Dr. McLane of New York. Mr. Pulitaer's eyes require rest, and upon the direction of his coulist he has spent the summer in foreign travel. He had intended to return home this month, chiefly for the purpose of starting work on the new World building, after which he proposed to return to Europe and spend the winter. REFUBLICANS VOTING AS DEMOGRATS.

As a matter of fact, no one who has paid anything like close attention to politics will deny that all through the rural districts of Missonri the Republicans have very generally acted and voted with the Democrats. They knew that they had no chance to elect their own candidates, and therefore, in order to have some influence in choosing town and county officers, would, both at the primaries and the polls, act with their opponents, in this way being able to express their preferences between individual Democrats. Herstofore the vote has not by any means been a fair test of the comparative strength of the parties, but strange as it may seem, this state of affairs has been detrimental to the Democrats rather than to the Republicans. Scores of Republicans voted with us, or stayed away from the polls. At the polls and the polls will be the polls and the polls will be the polls and the polls and the polls. The mystery is complete as there is trace of neither his motive nor his means. The work of the detectives in trying to find his trail has up to this time been fruitless.

Land is too valuable in the East to permit sheep to be profitably run, but there are millions of acres in the Southwest which are most admirably adapted for sheep, if once we could get rid of the scabby Mexicans. The results of the removal of the duty will be that our low-grade wool cannot compete with that of South America, but that millions of acres will be opened to heavy-fleeced sheep, as the Mexicans will be obliged to disappear. As it is, we have to buy high-grade wool from abroad to mix with our noor stuff, but when once the cause that has kept down our wool growers is removed we will not only produce all the fine wool that we need, but will at no distant day be able to export. The owners of poor, flocks will unquestionably suffer a temporary loss, but it will be far more than made up by the increased profits of the heavy-deeced sheep that must of necessity replace the present stock. We have in this country the finest sheep ranges in the world, and need, if not cursed with a tariff, fear no foreign competition.

SITTING BULL BAGES. The Old Warrior Angered by a Report That

He Had Signed the Treaty. the commissioners now at the lower agencies will soon return to Standing Rock to treat with will soon return to Standing Rock to treat with the Indians for the opening of the reservation has aroused no small amount of excitement among the opposing reds. While it is believed that many of the young Indians may sign if proper pressure is brought to bear, it is known that Sitting Bull, Gail, Bear and Big Head are as bitterly opposed to the plan as ever. The published report that Sitting Bull had signed the treaty was shown him and he fiew into a rage, accusing the man who started the report of all the villanies. He says that this report was sent out by some one friendly to the commission to lessen his influence among his Indians, but that he will show the whites that they cannot fool him. Gail still says he will never sign, and that he will sever all friendly ties with the Indians that do. Notwithstanding the attitude of the onless there are many among the more friendly tribes who are willing to sign. Judge Wright's recent friendly speeches have had a good influence on the Indians. It is understood that the commissioners will return from Lower Bruis to Standing Rock, and will not visit the Cheyenne Agency until they have tried their persuasive powers once more on Gail and Sitting Bull. They do not want to confront Red Clioud until they have accomplished semeshing at Standing Rock.
